Film Policy in a Globalised Cultural Economy

2018-12-07

the past two decades have witnessed major changes in film industries worldwide in response to both economic globalisation and technological developments the dominant position of hollywood movies in the global film market has remained largely uncontested but hollywood itself has become increasingly international in its operations whilst regional screen industries such as those in east asia and in the indian subcontinent have re emerged and developed new forms of collaboration the advent of digital technologies has also transformed the content of films and the ways in which they are made and consumed such changes in turn have posed new economic and cultural challenges for policy makers around the world and led to a degree of rethinking of how film policy objectives are to be conceived defined and implemented this collection brings together a range of international scholars from the usa europe and asia to consider how film policy has responded to the various economic technological and political shifts shaping the global film industry and to identify the many tensions between global and local economic and cultural and public and private policy objectives that have been the result of these changes this book was originally published as a special issue of the international journal of cultural policy the essay with its emphasis on the provisional and explorative rather than on definitive statements has evolved from its literary beginnings and is now found in all mediums including film today the essay film is arguably one of the most widely acclaimed and critically discussed forms of filmmaking around the world with practitioners such as chris marker hito steyerl errol morris Trinh T. Minh-ha and Rithy Panh characteristics of the essay film include the blending of fact and fiction the mixing of art and documentary film styles the foregrounding of subjective points of view a concentration on public life a tension between acoustic and visual discourses and a dialogic encounter with audiences this anthology of fundamental statements on the essay film offers a range of crucial historical and philosophical perspectives it provides early critical articulations of the essay film as it evolved through the 1950s and 1960s key contemporary scholarly essays and a selection of writings by essay filmmakers it features texts on the foundations of the essay film by writers such as Hans Richter and André Bazin contemporary positions by among others Phillip Lopate and Michael Renov and original essays by filmmakers themselves including Laura Mulvey and Isaac Julien

Film and the American Presidency

the contention of film and the american presidency is that over the twentieth century the cinema has been a silent partner in setting the parameters of what we might call the presidential imaginary this volume surveys the partnership in its longevity placing stress on especially iconic presidents such as lincoln and fdr the contributions to this collection probe the rich interactions between these high institutions of culture and politics hollywood and the presidency and argue that not only did hollywood acting become an idiom for presidential style but that hollywood early on understood its own identity through the presidency s peculiar mix of national epic and unified protagonist additionally they contend that studios often made their films to sway political outcomes that the performance of presidential personae has been constrained by the kinds of bodies for so long white and male that have occupied the office such that presidential embodiment obscures the body politic and that hollywood and the presidency may finally be nothing more than two privileged figures of media age power
