Culture and Consciousness 1981 what is consciousness why and when do we have it where does it come from and how does it relate to the lump of squishy grey matter in our heads or to our material and social worlds while neuroscientists philosophers psychologists historians and cultural theorists offer widely different perspectives on these fundamental questions concerning what it is like to be human most agree that consciousness represents a hard problem the emergence of consciousness studies as a multidisciplinary discourse addressing these issues has often been associated with rapid advances in neuroscience perhaps giving the impression that the arts and humanities have arrived late at the debating table the longer historical view suggests otherwise but it is probably true that music has been under represented in accounts of consciousness music and consciousness aims to redress the balance its twenty essays offer a timely and multi faceted contribution to consciousness studies critically examining some of the existing debates and raising new questions the collection makes it clear that to understand consciousness we need to do much more than just look at brains studying music demonstrates that consciousness is as much to do with minds bodies culture and history incorporating several chapters that move outside western philosophical traditions music and consciousness corrects any perception that the study of consciousness is a purely occidental preoccupation and in addition to what it says about consciousness the volume also presents a distinctive and thought provoking configuration of new writings about music

place monaco argues that the sensibility now being forged in europe will provide the guide to the twenty first century he illustrates this thesis by analysis of novels plays and especially motion pictures which have gradually supplanted novels

Integral Drama 2008 thomas mcnamara in evolution culture and consciousness presents the first comprehensive theory of human perception and consciousness based on the generally accepted principles of evolutionary psychology this theory building on the best evolutionary research explains that just a few simple neurological changes in the primate brain account for human speech self consciousness and the creation of meaning out of experience all primates can learn but our species evolved a new instinct for learning which makes childhood learning just as powerful as the other biological instincts found in all other primates mcnamara shows that children are genetically programmed to learn not just what to think but how to think shaping the preconscious process for creating meaning out of experience however because our environment has changed radically since our origin this archaic form of consciousness has become a major block to human development and success after explaining how we have all been programmed to preconsciously create meaning out of experience mcnamara shows how we can create a new and more successful way of thinking and feeling resulting in a happier more productive stress free life
