foreign workers but ford deftly shows how times and attitudes have begun to change now she argues ngos and the global union federations are encouraging local unions to represent and advocate for these peripheral workers and in some cases succeeding from migrant to worker builds our understanding of the role the international labor movement and local unions have had in developing a movement for migrant workers labor rights ford examines the relationship between different kinds of labor movement actors and the constraints imposed on those actors by resource flows contingency and local context her conclusions show that in countries hong kong malaysia and thailand where resource flows and local factors give the global union federations more influence local unions have become much more engaged with migrant workers but in countries japan and taiwan for example where they have little effect there has been little progress while much has changed ford forces us to see that labor migration in asia is still fraught with complications and hardships and that local unions are not always able or willing to act in this compendium of related and cross referential essays david r maines draws from pragmatist symbolic interactionist assumptions to formulate a consistent new view of the entire field of sociology suitable for courses in social theory qualitative methods social psychology and narrative inquiry this volume will change the way the general public looks at interpretive sociology this book is organized as an expression of the centrality of interactionism to general sociology each chapter is designed to articulate this view of the field symbolic interactionism the way maines has come to understand and use it is essentially the concerted application of pragmatist principles of philosophy to social inquiry there are four basic elements to this characterization first people transform themselves people are self aware beings who reflexively form their conduct and thus are capable of adjusting their lines of action and creating new ones second people transform their social worlds human action takes place in contexts of situations and social worlds people can modify the social matrices in which they act and thus people are agents of change third people engage in social dialogue communication is generic and is at the heart of both stability and change a fourth element is that people respond to and deal with their transformations humans construct situations and societies they establish social structures and cultures these are the consequences of human action and once formed they reflexively function to direct and channel conduct maines argues that when people do things together they can create enduring group formations such as divisions of labor rules for inheritance wage labor relations or ideologies these are instances of group characteristics that influence human conduct and indeed are not reducible to the traits of individuals making up the group or society david r maines is professor and chair of sociology and anthropology at oakland university rochester michigan where he teaches courses on urban sociology and social stratification he was one of the founding members of the society for the study of symbolic interaction and in 1999 received the sssi george herbert mead award for lifetime contributions to scholarship
