they found better avenues for trade in the western hemisphere that is Canada. Indo-French contacts began to be established initially through overseas trade in the second half of the seventeenth century with imports of precious metals into India by the French East India Company and through exports of spices and textiles from India to France. In due course these relations began to be diversified and came to cover local politics, society, defence, diplomacy and culture. The present work highlights some of the aspects of these interactions. Papers presented at an international seminar on Indian culture in a globalized world organised by the Indian Council for Cultural Relations in November 2010. Higher Education in India: New Perceptions and Perspectives is meant for all those who are working in the field of higher education and for all those who care for it. In India today it discusses the philosophy, the legacy, the crisis in it and the efforts to overcome them. It reviews all the main reports of all the commissions and committees appointed to form the policy and to reform the system in the context of globalization of HE. It also provides a review of NAAC efforts to enhance the quality of Indian HE institutions. Theory and practice are combined in this book to make it up to date and practically very useful to all the stakeholders of HE in India. The book is clear in views, highly informative in its contents, lucid in its style and a recent comprehensive statement with clear perceptions and perspectives of the HE scenario in India today. It is the outcome of 50 years of continuous contemplation of the author. It is a critique of Indian HE in the context of national development and global knowledge society.
