an interdisciplinary approach to the mediterranean s rich multicultural history located at the intersection of asia africa and europe the mediterranean has connected societies for millennia creating a shared space of intense economic cultural and political interaction greek temples in sicily roman ruins in north africa and ottoman fortifications in greece serve as reminders that the mediterranean has no fixed national boundaries or stable ethnic and religious identities in the mediterranean world monique o connell and eric r dursteler examine the history of this contested region from the medieval to the early modern era beginning with the fall of rome around 500 ce and closing with napoleon s attempted conquest of egypt in 1798 arguing convincingly that the mediterranean should be studied as a singular unit the authors explore the centuries when no lone power dominated the mediterranean sea and invaders brought their own unique languages and cultures to the region structured around four interlocking themes mobility state development commerce and frontiers this beautifully illustrated book brings new dimensions to the concepts of mediterranean nationality and identity a grand sweep of history by the late fernand braudel one of the twentieth century s most influential historians memory and the mediterranean chronicles the mediterranean s immeasurably rich past during the foundational period from prehistory to classical antiquity illuminating nothing less than the bedrock of our civilization and the very origins of western culture essential for historians yet written explicitly for the general reader this magnificent account of the ebb and flow of cultures shaped by the mediterranean takes us from the great sea s geologic beginnings through the ancient civilizations that flourished along its shores moving with ease from mesopotamia and egypt to the flowering of crete and the early aegean peoples and culminating in the prodigious achievements of ancient greece and rome braudel conveys in absorbing detail the geography and climate of the region over the course of millennia while brilliantly explaining the larger forces that gave rise to agriculture writing sea travel trade and ultimately the emergence of empires impressive in scope and gracefully written memory and the mediterranean is an endlessly enriching work of history by a legend in the field studies of the pivotal historic place of the mediterranean have long been dominated by specialists of its northern shores that is by european historians the seven leading authors in this groundbreaking volume challenge views of mediterranean space as shaped by european trajectories and in doing so they challenge our comfortable notions drawing perspectives from the mediterranean s eastern and southern shores they ask anew what is the mediterranean what are its borders its defining characteristics what forces of nature politics culture or economics have made the mediterranean and how long have they or will they endure covering the sixteenth century to the twentieth this timely volume brings the early modern world into conversation with the modern world in new ways demonstrating that only recently can we differentiate the north and south into separate cultural and political zones the making of the modern mediterranean views from the south offers a blueprint for a new generation of readers to rethink the world we thought we knew a wonderfully concise and readable yet comprehensive history of the mediterranean sea the perfect companion for any visitor or indeed anyone compelled to stay at home the grand object of travelling is to see the shores of the mediterranean samuel johnson 1776 the mediterranean has always been a leading stage for world history it is also visited each year by tens of millions of tourists both local and international jeremy black provides an account in which the experience of travel is foremost travel for tourism for trade for war for migration for culture or as so often for a variety of reasons travellers have always had a variety of goals and situations from rulers to slaves merchants to pirates and black covers them all from phoenicians travelling for trade to the modern tourist sailing for pleasure and cruising in great comfort throughout the book the emphasis is on the sea on coastal regions and on port cities visited by cruise liners athens barcelona naples palermo but it also looks beyond notably to the other waters that flow into the mediterranean the black sea the atlantic the red sea and rivers from the ebro and rhone to the Nile much of western eurasia and northern africa played and continues to play a role directly or indirectly in the fate of the mediterranean at times that can make the history of the sea an account of conflict after conflict but it is necessary to understand these wars in order to grasp the changing boundaries of the mediterranean states societies and religions the buildings that have been left and the peoples cultures senses of identity and histories black explores the centrality of the mediterranean to the western experience of travel beginning in antiquity with the phoenicians minoans and greeks he shows how the roman empire united the sea and how it was later divided by christianity and islam he tells the story of the rise and fall of the maritime empires of pisa genoa and venice describes how galley warfare evolved and how the mediterranean fired the imagination of shakespeare among many artists from the renaissance and baroque to the seventeenth century beginnings of english tourism to the aegean sicily and other destinations black examines the culture of the mediterranean he shows how english naval power grew culminating in nelson's famous victory over the french in the battle of the Nile and the establishment of gibraltar minorca and malta as naval bases black explains the retreat of islam in north africa describes the age of steam navigation and looks at how and why the british occupied cyprus egypt and the ionian islands he looks at the impact of the suez canal as a new sea route to india and how the riviera became europe's playground he shows how the mediterranean has been central to two world wars the cold war and ongoing conflicts in the middle east with its focus always on the sea the book looks at the fate of port cities particularly alexandria salonika and naples this work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it this work was reproduced from the original artifact and remains as true to the original work as possible therefore you will see the original copyright references library stamps as most of these works have been housed in our most important libraries around the world and other notations in the work this work is in the public domain in the united states of america and possibly other nations within the united states you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work as a reproduction of a historical artifact this work may contain missing or blurred pages poor pictures errant marks etc scholars believe and we

concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public we appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant excerpt from the mediterranean a memoir physical historical and nautical the undertaking though heavy is nevertheless not wanting either in interest or importance the mediterranean sea so secondary in extent compared with others being per se of vast surface with many of its characteristics on the grandest scale besides viewing it as the actual site where the intellectual culture to which we are most directly indebted was first developed it cannot but be regarded for its portentous historical occurrences nor will a sailor forget that it is the sea whereon the fleets of carthage greece and rome contended in former days and those of spain france italy and england in later times the grand object of travelling said dr johnson to general paoli is to see the shores of the mediterranean on those shores were the four great empires of the world the assyrian the persian the greek and the roman all our religion almost all our arts almost all that sets us above savages has come to us from the shores of the mediterranean about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works contained in this history of the great sea are the stories of the birth of western civilization the clash of warring faiths and the rivalries of empires david abulafia leads a team of eight distinguished historians in an exploration of the great facts themes and epochs of this region's history the physical setting the rivalry between carthaginians greeks and etruscans for control of the sea routes unification under rome and the subsequent break up into western christendom byzantium and islam the crusades commerce in medieval times the ottoman resurgence the rivalry of european powers from the eighteenth to the twentieth centuries and the globalization of the region in the last century the book departs from the traditional view of mediterranean history which placed emphasis on the overwhelming influences of physical geography on the molding of the region's civilizations instead this new interpretation regards that physical context as a staging ground for decisive action and at center stage are human catalysts at all levels of society whether great kings and emperors the sailors of medieval amalfi or the sephardic jews who were expelled from spain in 1492 the authors do more than simply catalogue the societies that developed in the region but also describe how these groups interacted with one another across the sea enjoying commercial and political ties as well as sharing ideas and religious beliefs this richly illustrated book offers contemporary historical writing at its best and is sure to engage specialists students and general readers alike the focus of fernand braudel's great work is the mediterranean world in the second half of the sixteenth century but braudel ranges back in history to the world of odysseus and forward to our time moving out from the mediterranean area to the new world and other destinations of mediterranean traders braudel's scope embraces the natural world and material life economics demography politics and diplomacy conventional scholarship on the mediterranean portrays the inner sea as a timeless entity with unchanging ecological and agrarian features but faruk tabak argues some of the traditional and olden characteristics that we attribute to it today are actually products of relatively recent developments locating the shifting fortunes of mediterranean city states and empires in patterns of long term economic and ecological change this study shows how the quintessential properties of the basin the trinity of cereals tree crops and small livestock were reestablished as the mediterranean s importance in global commerce agriculture and politics waned tabak narrates this history not from the vantage point of colossal empires but from that of the mercantile republics that played a pivotal role as empire building city states his unique juxtaposition of analyses of world economic developments that flowed from the decline of these city states and the ecological change associated with the little ice age depicts large scale long term social change integrating the story of the western and eastern mediterranean from genoa and the habsburg empire to venice and the ottoman and byzantine empires tabak unveils the complex process of devolution and regeneration that brought about the eclipse of the mediterranean for over three thousand years the mediterranean sea has been one of the great centres of world civilisation from the time of historical troy until the middle of the nineteenth century human activity here decisively shaped much of the course of world history david abulafia s the great sea is the first complete history of the mediterranean from the erection of the mysterious temples on malta around 3500 bc to the recent reinvention of the mediterranean s shores as a tourist destination part of the argument of abulafia s book is that the great port cities alexandria trieste and salonika and many others prospered in part because of their ability to allow many different peoples religions and identities to co exist within sometimes very confined spaces he also brilliantly populates his history with identifiable individuals whose lives illustrate with great immediacy the wider developments he is describing the great sea ranges stupendously across time and the whole extraordinary space of the mediterranean from gibraltar to jaffa venice to alexandria rather than imposing a false unity on the sea and the teeming human activity it has sustained the book emphasises diversity ethnic linguistic religious and political anyone who reads it will leave it with their understanding of those societies and their histories enormously enriched this volume is an indispensable addition to the multidisciplinary coverage of the science of the mediterranean sea the editors have gathered leading authorities from the fields of marine biology ecology paleoclimatology chemical and physical oceanography zoology botany aquatic photosynthesis socioeconomics mariculture mediterranean history and science of humanity beginning with the birth of the mediterranean sea and its myths from coral to fish an introduction is given to its major inhabitants of plants and animals past and present the chapters illustrate how organisms interact as part of the structure and function of the sea s main ecosystems the rise of the mediterranean as the cradle of the western civilization leads to a discourse on the status of human interaction with the sea accelerating global climate change water warming ocean acidification and sea level rise and analyses of their effects on key organisms entire ecosystems and human socioeconomics are given forecasting and predictions are presented taking into account different future scenarios from the ipcc international panel on climate change the volume is richly illustrated in color with an extensive bibliography a valuable addition to the limited literature in the field offering up to date broad coverage merging science and humanities the eastern mediterranean is one of the world s most vibrant and vital commercial centres and for centuries the region s cities and ports have been at the heart of east west trade taking a full and comprehensive look at the region as a whole rather than isolating individual cities or distinct cultures cities of the mediterranean offers a fresh and original portrait of the entire region from the 16th century to the present in this ambitious inter disciplinary study the authors examine the relationships between the eastern mediterranean port cities and their hinterlands as well as inland and provincial cities from many different perspectives political economic international and ecological without prioritising either ottoman anatolia or the ottoman balkans or the arab provinces in order to think of the eastern mediterranean world as a coherent whole wide ranging in scope cities of the mediterranean explores diverse topics weaving together history sociology geography cartography politics and economics early chapters examine the impact of the little ice age the global economy s shift from the mediterranean to antwerp and amsterdam early european perceptions of the eastern mediterranean 19th century harbour building practices and their impact on the cities and the connections between alexandria izmir and thessalonica and their vast and diverse hinterlands the book also explores political radicalism in turkey and elsewhere as well as the illegal trade networks that linked the balkans and adriatic with the mediterranean and the introduction of new technologies that led to the faster transport of people goods and information through its penetrating analysis of the various networks that connected the ports and towns of the mediterranean and their inhabitants throughout the ottoman period cities of the mediterranean presents the region as a unified and dynamic community and paves the way for a new understanding of the subject an evocative exploration of the impact of the mediterranean on british culture ranging from the mid eighteenth century to today ever since the age of the grand tour in the eighteenth century the mediterranean has had a significant pull for britons including many painters and poets who sought from it the inspiration beauty and fulfillment that evaded them at home referred to as magick land by one traveler dreams about the mediterranean and responses to it went on to shape the culture of a nation written by one of the world s leading historians of the mediterranean this book charts how a new sensibility arose from british engagement with the mediterranean ancient and modern ranging from byron s poetry to damien hirst s installations robert holland shows that while idealized visions and aspirations often met with disillusionment and frustration the mediterranean also offered a notably insular society the chance to enrich itself through an imagined world of color carnival and sensual self discovery the resurgence of violent terrorist organizations claiming to act in the name of god has rekindled dramatic public debate about the connection between violence and religion and its history offering a panoramic view of the tangled history of war and religion throughout europe and the mediterranean war and religion takes a hard look at the tumultuous history of war in its relationship to religion arnaud blin examines how this relationship began through the concurrent emergence of the mediterranean empires and the great monotheistic faiths moving through the middle ages and the renaissance and into the modern era blin concludes with why the link between violence and religion endures for each time period blin shows how religion not only fueled a great number of conflicts but also defined the manner presenting a breadth of flora never before brought together in a single volume the authors offer a unique window on the floral wonders of the mediterranean world the greek pandocheion arabic funduq and latin fundicum fondaco were ubiquitous in the mediterranean sphere for nearly two millennia these institutions were not only hostelry for traders and travelers but also taverns markets warehouses and sites for commercial taxation and regulation in this highly original study professor constable traces the complex evolution of this family of institutions from the pandocheion in late antiquity to the appearance of the funduq throughout the muslim mediterranean following the rise of islam by the twelfth century with the arrival of european merchants in islamic markets the funduq evolved into the fondaco these merchant colonies facilitated trade and travel between muslim and christian regions before long fondacos also appeared in southern european cities this study of the diffusion of this institutional family demonstrates common economic interests and cross cultural communications across the medieval mediterranean world and provides a striking contribution to our understanding of this region this work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it this work was reproduced from the original artifact and remains as true to the original work as possible therefore you will see the original copyright references library stamps as most of these works have been housed in our most important libraries around the world and other notations in the work this work is in the public domain in the united states of america and possibly other nations within the united states you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work as a reproduction of a historical artifact this work may contain missing or blurred pages poor pictures errant marks etc scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public we appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant this historic book may have numerous typos and missing text purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher not indexed not illustrated 1917 edition excerpt 6 columns for discount on purchases and discount on notes on the same side of the cash book c columns for discount on sales and cash sales on the debit side of the cash book d departmental columns in the sales book and in the purchase book controlling accounts the addition of special columns in books of original entry makes possible the keeping of controlling accounts the most common examples of such accounts are accounts receivable account and accounts payable account these summary accounts respectively displace individual customers and creditors accounts in the ledger the customers accounts are then segregated in another book called the sales ledger or customers ledger while the creditors accounts are kept in the purchase or creditors ledger the original ledger now much reduced in size is called the general ledger the trial balance now refers to the accounts in the general ledger it is evident that the task of taking a trial balance is greatly simplified because so many fewer accounts are involved a schedule of accounts receivable is then prepared consisting of the balances found in the sales ledger and its total must agree with the balance of the accounts receivable account shown in the trial balance a similar schedule of accounts payable made up of all the balances in the purchase ledger is prepared and it must agree with the balance of the accounts payable account of the general ledger the balance sheet in the more elementary part of the text the student learned how to prepare a statement of assets and liabilities for the purpose of disclosing the net capital of an enterprise in the present chapter he was shown how to prepare a similar statement the balance sheet for all practical in the open sea j g manning offers a major new history of economic life in the mediterranean world in the iron age from phoenician trading down to the hellenistic era and the beginning of rome s imperial supremacy drawing on a wide range of ancient sources and the latest social theory manning suggests that a search for an illusory single ancient economy has obscured the diversity of lived experience in the mediterranean world including both changes in political economies over time and differences in cultural conceptions of property and money at the same time he shows how the region s economies became increasingly interconnected during this period publisher s description a collection of over two hundred recipes for appetizers breads soups meats poultry vegetables pasta desserts and beverages from southern europe the middle east and north africa this work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it this work was reproduced from the original artifact and remains as true to the original work as possible therefore you will see the original copyright references library stamps as most of these works have been housed in our most important libraries around the world and other notations in the work this work is in the public domain in the united states of america and possibly other nations within the united states you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work as a reproduction of a historical artifact this work may contain missing or blurred pages poor pictures errant marks etc scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public we appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant this work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it this work was reproduced from the original artifact and remains as true to the original work as possible therefore you will see the original copyright references library stamps as most of these works have been housed in our most important libraries around the world and other notations in the work this work is in the public domain in the united states of america and possibly other nations within the united states you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work as a reproduction of a historical artifact this work may contain missing or blurred pages poor pictures errant marks etc scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public we appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant how useful is the concept of network for historical studies and the ancient world in particular using theoretical models of social network analysis this book illuminates aspects of the economic social religious and political history of the ancient greek and roman worlds bringing together some of the most active and prominent researchers in ancient history this book moves beyond political institutions ethnic and geographical boundaries in order to observe the ancient mediterranean through a perspective of network interaction it employs a wide range of approaches and to examine relationships and interactions among various social entities in the mediterranean chronologically the book extends from the early iron age to the late antique world covering the mediterranean between antioch in the east to massalia marseilles in the west this book was published as two special issues in mediterranean historical review this work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it this work was reproduced from the original artifact and remains as true to the original work as possible therefore you will see the original copyright references library stamps as most of these works have been housed in our most important libraries around the world and other notations in the work this work is in the public domain in the united states of america and possibly other nations within the united states you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work as a reproduction of a historical artifact this work may contain missing or blurred pages poor pictures errant marks etc scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public we appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant

The Mediterranean World 2016-05-23 an interdisciplinary approach to the mediterranean s rich multicultural history located at the intersection of asia africa and europe the mediterranean has connected societies for millennia creating a shared space of intense economic cultural and political interaction greek temples in sicily roman ruins in north africa and ottoman fortifications in greece serve as reminders that the mediterranean has no fixed national boundaries or stable ethnic and religious identities in the mediterranean world monique o connell and eric r dursteler examine the history of this contested region from the medieval to the early modern era beginning with the fall of rome around 500 ce and closing with napoleon s attempted conquest of egypt in 1798 arguing convincingly that the mediterranean should be studied as a singular unit the authors explore the centuries when no lone power dominated the mediterranean sea and invaders brought their own unique languages and cultures to the region structured around four interlocking themes mobility state development commerce and frontiers this beautifully illustrated book brings new dimensions to the concepts of mediterranean nationality and identity

Letters from the Mediterranean ; Containing a Civil and Political Account of Sicily, Tripoly, Tunis and Malta 1813 a grand sweep of history by the late fernand braudel one of the twentieth century s most influential historians Memory and the Mediterranean chronicles the mediterranean s immeasurably rich past during the foundational period from prehistory to classical antiquity illuminating nothing less than the bedrock of our civilization and the very origins of western culture essential for historians yet written explicitly for the general reader this magnificent account of the ebb and flow of cultures shaped by the mediterranean takes us from the great sea s geologic beginnings through the ancient civilizations that flourished along its shores moving with ease from mesopotamia and egypt to the flowering of crete and the early aegean peoples and culminating in the prodigious achievements of ancient greece and rome braudel conveys in absorbing detail the geography and climate of the region over the course of millennia while brilliantly explaining the larger forces that gave rise to agriculture writing sea travel trade and ultimately the emergence of empires impressive in scope and gracefully written Memory and the Mediterranean is an endlessly enriching work of history by a legend in the field

Memory and the Mediterranean 2011-02-09 studies of the pivotal historic place of the mediterranean have long been dominated by specialists of its northern shores that is by european historians the seven leading authors in this groundbreaking volume challenge views of mediterranean space as shaped by european trajectories and in doing so they challenge our comfortable notions drawing perspectives from the mediterranean s eastern and southern shores they ask anew what is the mediterranean what are its borders its defining characteristics what forces of nature politics culture or economics have made the mediterranean and how long have they or will they endure covering the sixteenth century to the twentieth this timely volume brings the early modern world into conversation with the modern world in new ways demonstrating that only recently can we differentiate the north and south into separate cultural and political zones the making of the modern mediterranean views from the south offers a blueprint for a new generation of readers to rethink the world we thought we knew

The Making of the Modern Mediterranean 2019-07-09 a wonderfully concise and readable yet comprehensive history of the mediterranean sea the perfect companion for any visitor or indeed anyone compelled to stay at home the grand object of travelling is to see the shores of the mediterranean samuel johnson 1776 the mediterranean has always been a leading stage for world history it is also visited each year by tens of millions of tourists both local and international jeremy black provides an account in which the experience of travel is foremost travel for tourism for trade for war for migration for culture or as so often for a variety of reasons travellers have always had a variety of goals and situations from rulers to slaves merchants to pirates and black covers them all from phoenicians travelling for trade to the modern tourist sailing for pleasure and cruising in great comfort throughout the book the emphasis is on the sea on coastal regions and on port cities visited by cruise liners athens barcelona naples palermo but it also looks beyond notably to the other waters that flow into the mediterranean the black sea the atlantic the red sea and rivers from the ebro and rhone to the Nile much of western eurasia and northern africa played and continues to play a role directly or indirectly in the fate of the mediterranean at times that can make the history of the sea an account of conflict after conflict but it is necessary to understand these wars in order to grasp the changing boundaries of the mediterranean states societies and religions the buildings that have been left and the peoples cultures senses of identity and histories black explores the centrality of the mediterranean to the western experience of travel beginning in antiquity with the phoenicians minoans and greeks he shows how the roman empire united the sea and how it was later divided by christianity and islam he tells the story of the rise and fall of the maritime empires of pisa genoa and venice describes how galley warfare evolved and how the mediterranean fired the imagination of shakespeare among many artists from the renaissance and baroque to the seventeenth century beginnings of english tourism to the aegean sicily and other destinations black examines the culture of the mediterranean he shows how english naval power grew culminating in nelson's famous victory over the french in the battle of the Nile and the establishment of gibraltar minorca and malta as naval bases black explains the retreat of islam in north africa describes the age of steam navigation and looks at how and why the british occupied cyprus egypt and the ionian islands he looks at the impact of the suez canal as a new sea route to india and how the riviera became europe's playground he shows how the mediterranean has been central to two world wars the cold war and ongoing conflicts in the middle east with its focus always on the sea the book looks at the fate of port cities particularly alexandria salonika and naples

The Mediterranean A Memoir Physical, Historical And Nautical 2019-03-26 excerpt from the mediterranean a memoir physical historical and nautical the undertaking though heavy is nevertheless not wanting either in interest or importance the mediterranean sea so secondary in extent compared with others being per se of vast surface with many of its characteristics on the grandest scale besides viewing it as the actual site where the intellectual culture to which we are most directly indebted was first developed it cannot but be regarded for its portentous historical occurrences nor will a sailor forget that it is the sea whereon the eets of carthage greece and rome contended in fonner days and those of spain france italy and england in later times the grand object of travelling said dr johnson to general paoli is to see the shores of the mediter ranean on those shores were the four great empires of the world the assyrian the persian the greek and the roman all our religion almost all our arts almost all that sets us above savages has come to us from the shores of the mediterranean about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

The Mediterranean 2016-08-08 contained in this history of the great sea are the stories of the birth of western civilization the clash of warring faiths and the rivalries of empires david abulafia leads a team of eight distinguished historians in an exploration of the great facts themes and epochs of this region s history the physical setting the rivalry between carthaginians greeks and etruscans for control of the sea routes unification under rome and the subsequent break up into western christendom byzantium and islam the crusades commerce in medieval times the ottoman resurgence the rivalry of european powers from the eighteenth to the twentieth centuries and the globalization of the region in the last century the book departs from the traditional view of mediterranean history which placed emphasis on the overwhelming influences of physical geography on the molding of the region s civilizations instead this new interpretation regards that physical context as a staging ground for decisive action and at center stage are human catalysts at all levels of society whether great kings and emperors the sailors of medieval amalfi or the sephardic jews who were expelled from spain in 1492 the authors do more than simply catalogue the societies that developed in the region but also describe how these groups interacted with one another across the sea enjoying commercial and political ties as well as sharing ideas and religious beliefs this richly illustrated book offers contemporary historical writing at its best and is sure to engage specialists students and general readers alike

The Mediterranean in History 2003 the focus of fernand braudel s great work is the mediterranean world in the second half of the sixteenth century but braudel ranges back in history to the world of odysseus and forward to our time moving out from the mediterranean area to the new world and other destinations of mediterranean traders braudel s scope embraces the natural world and material life economics demography politics and diplomacy

The Mediterranean and the Mediterranean World in the Age of Philip II 2023-07-25 conventional scholarship on the mediterranean portrays the inner sea as a timeless entity with unchanging ecological and agrarian features but faruk tabak argues some of the traditional and olden characteristics that we attribute to it today are actually products of relatively recent developments locating the shifting fortunes of mediterranean city states and empires in patterns of long term economic and ecological change this study shows how the quintessential properties of the basin the trinity of cereals tree crops and small livestock were reestablished as the mediterranean s importance in global commerce agriculture and politics waned tabak narrates this history not from the vantage point of colossal empires but from that of the mercantile republics that played a pivotal role as empire building city states his unique juxtaposition of analyses of world economic developments that flowed from the decline of these city states and the ecological change associated with the little ice age depicts large scale long term social change integrating the story of the western and eastern mediterranean from genoa and the habsburg empire to venice and the ottoman and byzantine empires tabak unveils the complex process of devolution and regeneration that brought about the eclipse of the mediterranean

The Waning of the Mediterranean, 1550-1870 2008-02-06 for over three thousand years the mediterranean sea has been one of the great centres of world civilisation from the time of historical troy until the middle of the nineteenth century human activity here decisively shaped much of the course of world history david abulafia s The Great Sea is the first complete history of the mediterranean from the erection of the mysterious temples on malta around 3500 bc to the recent reinvention of the mediterranean s shores as a tourist destination part of the argument of abulafia s book is that the great port cities alexandria trieste and salonika and many others prospered in part because of their ability to allow many different peoples religions and identities to co exist within sometimes very confined spaces he also brilliantly populates his history with identifiable individuals whose lives illustrate with great immediacy the wider developments he is describing the great sea ranges stupendously across time and the whole extraordinary space of the mediterranean from gibraltar to jaffa venice to alexandria rather than imposing a false unity on the sea and the teeming human activity it has sustained the book emphasises diversity ethnic linguistic religious and political anyone who reads it will leave it with their understanding of those societies and their histories enormously enriched

The Great Sea 2011-05-05 this volume is an indispensable addition to the multidisciplinary coverage of the science of the mediterranean sea the editors have gathered leading authorities from the fields of marine biology ecology paleoclimatology chemical and physical oceanography zoology botany aquatic photosynthesis socioeconomics mariculture mediterranean history and science of humanity beginning with the birth of the mediterranean sea and its myths from coral to fish an introduction is given to its major inhabitants of plants and

The Mediterranean Sea 2013-09-09 the eastern mediterranean is one of the world's most vibrant and vital commercial centres and for centuries the region's cities and ports have been at the heart of east west trade taking a full and comprehensive look at the region as a whole rather than isolating individual cities or distinct cultures cities of the mediterranean offers a fresh and original portrait of the entire region from the 16th century to the present in this ambitious inter disciplinary study the authors examine the relationships between the eastern mediterranean port cities and their hinterlands as well as inland and provincial cities from many different perspectives political economic international and ecological without prioritising either ottoman anatolia or the ottoman balkans or the arab provinces in order to think of the eastern mediterranean world as a coherent whole wide ranging in scope cities of the mediterranean explores diverse topics weaving together history sociology geography cartography politics and economics early chapters examine the impact of the little ice age the global economy's shift from the mediterranean to antwerp and amsterdam early european perceptions of the eastern mediterranean 19th century harbour building practices and their impact on the cities and the connections between alexandria izmir and thessalonica and their vast and diverse hinterlands the book also explores political radicalism in turkey and elsewhere as well as the illegal trade networks that linked the balkans and adriatic with the mediterranean and the introduction of new technologies that led to the faster transport of people goods and information through its penetrating analysis of the various networks that connected the ports and towns of the mediterranean and their inhabitants throughout the ottoman period cities of the mediterranean presents the region as a unified and dynamic community and paves the way for a new understanding of the subject

Cities of the Mediterranean 2014-08-25 an evocative exploration of the impact of the mediterranean on british culture ranging from the mid eighteenth century to today ever since the age of the grand tour in the eighteenth century the mediterranean has had a significant pull for britons including many painters and poets who sought from it the inspiration beauty and fulfillment that evaded them at home referred to as magick land by one traveler dreams about the mediterranean and responses to it went on to shape the culture of a nation written by one of the world's leading historians of the mediterranean this book charts how a new sensibility arose from british engagement with the mediterranean ancient and modern ranging from byron's poetry to damien hirst's installations robert holland shows that while idealized visions and aspirations often met with disillusionment and frustration the mediterranean also offered a notably insular society the chance to enrich itself through an imagined world of color carnival and sensual self discovery

The Warm South 2018-10-02 the resurgence of violent terrorist organizations claiming to act in the name of god has rekindled dramatic public debate about the connection between violence and religion and its history offering a panoramic view of the tangled history of war and religion throughout europe and the mediterranean war and religion takes a hard look at the tumultuous history of war in its relationship to religion arnaud blin examines how this relationship began through the concurrent emergence of the mediterranean empires and the great monotheistic faiths moving through the middle ages and the renaissance and into the modern era blin concludes with why the link between violence and religion endures for each time period blin shows how religion not only fueled a great number of conflicts but also defined the manner in which wars were conducted and fought

War and Religion 2019-03-19 an award winning history of the mediterranean from prehistory to the classical world reissued with an extended new preface by the author

The Mediterranean and the Mediterranean world in the age of Philip II 2018-11-08 transnational patriotism in the mediterranean investigates the long process of transition from a world of empires to a world of nation states by narrating the biographies of a group of people who were born within empires but came of age surrounded by the emerging vocabulary of nationalism much of which they themselves created it is the story of a generation of intellectuals and political thinkers from the ionian islands who experienced the collapse of the republic of venice and the dissolution of the common cultural and political space of the adriatic and who contributed to the creation of italian and greek nationalisms by uncovering this forgotten intellectual universe transnational patriotism in the mediterranean retrieves a world characterized by multiple cultural intellectual and political affiliations that have since been buried by the conventional narrative of the formation of nation states transnational patriotism in the mediterranean rethinks the origins of italian and greek nationalisms and states highlighting the intellectual connection between the italian peninsula greece and russia and reestablishing the lost link between the changing geopolitical contexts of western europe the mediterranean and the balkans in the age of revolutions it re inscribes important intellectuals and political figures considered national fathers of italy and greece such as ugo foscolo dionysios solomos ioannis kapodistrias and niccolò tommaseo into their regional and multicultural context and shows how nations emerged from an intermingling rather than a clash of ideas concerning empire and liberalism enlightenment and religion revolution and conservatism and east and west
